

Revisionists Victims of Book Burning Terror in California

Torrance History Publisher Suffers Years Of Persecution Ending in $400,000 Holocaust

Reprinted by permission of The Spotlight, 300 Independence Ave., S.E. Washington, D.C. 20003

EXCLUSIVE TO THE SPOTLIGHT

By James Thompson

You may challenge the divinity of Jesus Christ and be applauded. You may spit on the flag. You can give aid and comfort to our enemies and make millions in Hollywood. You may print and promote the vilest pornography for children and scream obscenities at gentler ladies and the media will report on it sympathetically, explaining it's permitted under the First Amendment. You may advocate the use of drugs and the extermination of all White people. Anything goes.

was demolished by the terrorist tool of arson.

Thousands of books, estimated at a retail value of more than $300,000, fed the chemically-induced fire set a few minutes after midnight in Torrance, California.

Also destroyed were thousands of dollars' worth of typewriters, desks, chairs, tables, typesetting equipment and supplies, the IHR Revisionist Library, irreplaceable records, documents, translations, manuscripts and files.

The uncaring, diffident Torrance Police (TPD) have no suspects. The mayor of Torrance, James Armstrong,

VICTIMS OF PERSECUTION

The IHR and its personnel have been victims of innumerable terrorist actions ever since shortly after it was founded in 1978. In the last two months, employees have had a total of 22 tires slashed and their cars vandalized. One family has had to move to a house with a garage they can lock at night to protect their cars. Telephone threats during office hours and at night to homes of employees have been too numerous to count although they have been dutifully reported to authorities.

The Jewish Defense League (JDL), which has publicly taken "credit" for some of the harassments, and considers tack and the inside of the office was damaged each time by flames. With the third attack a new element was added: The terrorists fired bullets into the office, aiming at where they believed Tom Marcellus was sitting.

During 1983 things quieted down, but this was the calm before the storm. Apparently the relatively amateurish attempts to put the IHR out of business were being upgraded. It is presumed that well-trained professionals from the Israeli army were assigned the task of wiping out the IHR exactly as that army has wiped out thousand of homes and business establishments of Palestinians and Lebanese and exactly the way the rescue some material. IHR headquarters in Torrance, California was totally destroyed by terrorists on July 4. Note roof completely burned away.

In the photo at left is the front of the IHR headquarters building. No firebomb could have been thrown through the window. In the right photo, Tom Marcellus attempts to

Well, almost anything. There is one thing you may not say without political-terror. You cannot challenge the theory we all know as "The Holocaust."

Do that and you will be picketed, threatened with death, firebombed and destroyed while the authorities look on approvingly, hand in hand with the criminals.

Photographs on these pages show vividly the painful truth. Here is what happens to your precious First Amendment guarantee of freedom of speech if you should dare to challenge the new religion of "The Holocaust" and historical orthodoxy.

ON THE FOURTH OF JULY

On the eve of our nation's birthday, July 4, 1984, the office-warehouse of the Institute for Historical Review (IHR)

who has made his position of support for the haters of historical truth quite clear, is contemptuously silent about the terror which has engulfed his city.

"The criminals who perpetrated this atrocity chose the date well," said Tom Marcellus, director of the IHR. "The fourth of July has always had a happy and proud significance for Americans," he said. "Until today it has been a celebration of the birth of freedom. Today we mourn its death."

"Of all our traditional freedoms," he said, "the First Amendment is the most important—our guarantee of the freedom of speech and religion. Without these, the others are meaningless."

"Our crime," said Marcellus, "has been to tell the truth as we see it, and this is our punishment."

itself part of the Israeli army, has picketed the office, Israeli flag flying, and the homes of employees and associates, screaming and chanting death threats to occupants.

JDL fanatics have tried to gain entrance to the office during daylight hours. IHR employees and visitors have been watched, photographed and followed. The founder of the IHR was once assaulted and might have been killed if the police had not arrived in the nick of time.

There were three previous attempts to incinerate the IHR office and one to burn the home of personnel. The first firebomb attack took place on June 25, 1981. There was a second on April 25, 1982 and a third on September 5, 1982.

Windows were destroyed in each at-cowardly Israelis tried to sink the virtually defenseless American vessel, the "USS Liberty," in 1967.

The catastrophe of July 4, 1984 was the culmination of a long series of attempts which had all failed in the object: to silence the increasingly influential voice of the IHR.

AUTHORITIES IGNORE VIOLENCE

All this has gone on while the local and federal authorities not only look the other way but have made no effort to find the perpetrators of these criminal acts and charge them. Finding them would be easy. It is known that the TPD has high-quality photographs of all those who have picketed the IHR, the names, addresses and license plate numbers of most of them and the criminal records of many of these thugs.

The police also have numerous tape recordings of JDL callers threatening IHR personnel with death, but they have done nothing to find the culprits, bring them in and question them. Once, when someone bombed a Jewish delicatessen in Torrance, the police made a major effort to find the suspects, including questioning IHR personnel. The cops, however, hastily dropped the case when it became apparent that the bombing was the work of a faction of rabbis trying to horn in on another group of rabbis who control the lucrative kosher food racket in Torrance.

Harassment, physical terrorism and official inaction have been only three aspects of an overall strategy operating at all levels to silence the IHR. Concurrent with the above was an attempt to destroy the IHR from the inside. Two employees, secretly working in collusion, were discovered to be sabotaging the IHR and were fired. Although neither has any visible means of support, both have kept up a fusillade of deliberately false and slanderous attempts to undermine support for the IHR.

INTERNATIONAL BATTLE

Although the IHR has had to take severe abuse in the United States, for adhering to the revisionist position, others have fared as badly in foreign countries.

In France, Dr. Robert Faurisson was tried for his dissent views. Exhaustive, first-hand research led this professor, an expert in authenticating documents, to dismiss "The Holocaust" as a total fiction. He was subjected to bitter ridicule and calumny. He lost his job and his marriage and gained a nervous breakdown. However, the outcome of his trial was a shock to true believers in "The Holocaust" theory. The hostile judge could not find him guilty of lying.

In Sweden Ditleif Felderer, after visiting Auschwitz numerous times, talking with the authorities there, asking questions, reading the records, inspecting and photographing the place in detail and testing all facts against the claims of "survivors," concluded there could not have been any gas chambers at that wartime internment camp—in many respects better than the camps that Roosevelt provided for the Japanese during the war. Felderer was arrested for ridiculing the claims of one Mel Mermelstein (of which more follows) and was held in jail without trial until an international effort forced the Swedes to release him.

In Germany, Judge Wilhelm Staeglich wrote a book on the question of Auschwitz. Nothing untrue was found in the book, but the authorities destroyed all copies, forced him off the bench and even took his college degree away, ironically using a law passed by Adolf Hitler's government. (The IHR had been planning an English-language edition of this book but the plans are now on ice.)

In Canada Ernst Zuendel lives in fear of his life. The authorities have banned his writing and he must have an escort wherever he goes. He, too, claims that "The Holocaust" is a public relations gimmick propagated by those who profit from it.

In America, Dr. Arthur Butz, a professor at Northwestern University, has offered to debate anyone on the question of "The Holocaust." No one will accept that challenge, but Butz is constantly faced with demands for his resignation and threats on his life. His crime is writing "The Hoax of the 20th Century," a book which painstakingly and in detail analyzes the question of the alleged mass extermination policies of the Germans.

In Long Beach, a professor at California State University, Dr. Reinhard Buchner, formerly an associate of the IHR, was spat upon, physically attacked, and had JDL thugs marauding in his neighborhood constantly. He had a heart attack and is now in retirement.

PROTECTIVE MEASURES TAKEN

Because of the continuing attacks, the IHR tried to protect itself. All windows were replaced by bullet-resistant Lexan or tempered glass, resistant to very hard knocks. The windows, in fact, were so hard to break that only a sledgehammer or similar heavy battering tool could have broken through. The building was also protected by electronic fire and entrance devices. Often, someone slept in the office with a gun at hand. Fortunately, no one was in the office on the night of July 3-4.

One example of the clumsiness of the TPD is the comment of Lt. Jim Pabst. Quoted by the Associated Press in a dispatch carried widely (the New York "Times" ran a sanitized version in its first edition, then dropped it), Pabst said that the blaze was "triggered by someone who hurled a Molotov cocktail into the building or doused the offices with gasoline and set them afire."

IHR employees stand atop mountain of burned books.

Pabst is wrong on both counts. The blaze could not possibly have been triggered by a Molotov cocktail because no human being could have thrown it through Lexan.

Also, there was an interior door, 15 feet from the main entrance, which was closed. A firebomb couldn't have been thrown through the front window and into the rear warehouse area (where the fire started) unless illegal entrance had already been gained.

The fire was obviously set by intruders, who had to break through the deadbolted door or break in through the impact-resistant windows. The intruders then ran into the warehouse and splattered it with a flame propellant which was certainly not gasoline but which burned much slower, hotter and longer than gas. They then ignited it without an explosion killing themselves and escaped. A highly trained crew with the proper tools and equipment and detailed planning could have done the job safely in three minutes.

Contrary to the TPD "expert," if arsonists had used gasoline it would have exploded, blowing out the rear door and probably killing the criminals. It also would not have burned as hot as the substance used.

"The flame propellant used," said an observer, "was probably either thermite—a substance developed during World War II to kill German civilians in mass bombing raids, or a post-war jelly substance the Israelis use on their neighbors—and American taxpayers probably paid for it."

Legal means were also being used to silence the IHR. Mel Mermelstein, claiming to be a "survivor," sued the institute for $17 million, claiming the IHR harmed him by denying "established historical fact," causing him sleepless nights, loss of weight and mental anguish. Oddly, Mermelstein never made any serious attempt to prove that there was a "holocaust," thus passively admitting that he was unable to disprove any of the historical facts advanced by IHR scholars.

To the blare of publicity whenever they wanted it, Mermelstein, Simon

Wiesenthal and hundreds if not thousands of spokesmen for "The Holocaust" theory condemned the IHR almost daily. Strangely, however, the IHR's bonded offer to pay $50,000 to anyone who could prove that there were gas chambers in Auschwitz for the purpose of killing human beings was massively ignored by the press.

Although the IHR raised a trust fund of $50,000 to pay to the first person to prove the thesis there were only three applicants, none of whom had a scintilla of proof. Simon Wiesenthal, Elie Wiesel, Mel Mermelstein and countless others who never cease bleating about these alleged gas chambers failed to come forward to prove their case and collect.

Although the media chose to ignore the IHR's legally funded, precise offer, innumerable references to "nazis" who "denied the holocaust" were printed and voiced widely. Even President Reagan joined the party, kicking around unnamed "falsifiers of history" who would dare to deny what everyone knew.

Reagan, in fact, even went to the extreme of lying. He said he personally saw "gas chambers" at Dachau—although Ronald Reagan was never in Europe during the war and even the king of exterminationists himself, Simon Wiesenthal, is on record admitting that no gas chambers existed at Dachau or anywhere else in Germany.

(Wiesenthal is himself somewhat of a historical revisionist. He used to claim that many extermination camps were located in what is now West Germany, but has recently taken to claiming that they were all located in what are now communist-occupied countries, such as the famous Auschwitz in Poland. The communists agree.)

A distorted version of the IHR's offer served as the basis for an episode of "Quincy," a TV serial, which has, mercifully, since then, expired because of well-deserved lack of viewer interest.

The IHR has caused the so-called Anti-Defamation League (ADL) of B'nai B'rith (an illegally unregistered agent for a foreign government and a "working partner" with the JDL) to produce something it called "Holocaust" and which it fittingly labeled a "docu-drama," thereby admitting that it is fiction. To the hosannas of politicians, editorial writers and so-called "news" commentators, "Holocaust" has been force-fed to millions of gullible TV viewers as factual.

Here are all that survived. The boxes were inside a closet, unburned but water-soaked. Some files inside metal drawers were severely charred and water-soaked.

Immediately after the fire, employees of the IHR began receiving ghoulish phone calls from JDL members gloating over the destruction. For the past few years the JDL has been able to get unlisted telephone numbers of IHR personnel from the telephone company hours after being assigned. And phone calls from the office were routinely monitored by illegal listeners.

The son of a woman employee was telephoned in Tucson, where he worked. He was told by a JDL caller that his mother and father had been killed. The son was unable to call his parents in Torrance because they had taken their own telephone off the hook because of the harassing and sadistic calls they were receiving.

Irv Rubin, Los Angeles head of the JDL, called a press conference at the burned-out ruins. Climbing on top of the mountain of burned books Rubin said gleefully that the JDL was very happy at the crime but—of course—didn't know who did it. Rubin suspects, he says, an undercover cop allegedly named Joel Cohen who once infiltrated into the JDL and, according to Rubin, tried to incite the JDL to even greater violence than was normal for it.

WHY EXIST?

"Why have you people made such an issue out of the 'Holocaust'?" I asked. "Why is this point so important?"

"In the first place, we haven't met an issue," said Marcellus. "Our enemies have. We are too small to make an issue out of anything. All we've done is to report the findings of others and this has upset the entire Establishment, as you can see. But the basic answer as to its importance is that this false 'fact' literally distorts America's view of everything. It stops any real inquiry into the causes of both world wars because it falsely settles the war guilt question by simply declaring Germany guilty of everything. It makes it impossible to understand the causes of war—and this is the reason for the IHR in the first place.

"While politicians and other creatures constantly bleat about their love for peace, they really promote war because they are too ignorant, too corrupt or too cowardly to face the facts," he said. "And also, the 'Holocaust' myth costs the taxpayers billions each year to support Israel while at the same time destroying our relations with the rest of the world."

50,000-TO-ONE RATIO

"I suppose that for every dollar we have spent the Establishment has put up 50,000 more to try to counteract us," said Marcellus. "As Boris Pasternak said in 'Dr. Zhivago,' 'Nothing is more powerful than the cudgel of unarmed truth,' and we have proven what a little truth can do against the naked power of the Establishment.

"It's amazing what we've done. That's why they had to get us, even at the cost of revealing their true terrorist nature to anyone who has eyes to see."

Looking around at the wreckage, Marcellus cynically mused: "I guess Pasternak overlooked something. He never mentioned that the enemies of the truth have a very painful cudgel." ●

PICKET—Jewish Defense League picketing Institute for Historical Review, in Torrance, California, April 5, 1981. Notice Israeli flag carried by demonstrator. The JDL considers itself part of the Israeli Army (SPOTLIGHT, July 16 and 23).

'Devil's Pact' Between U.S., Mossad

Israeli Secret Service Moves to Crush What It Views as American Opposition to Zionism

EXCLUSIVE TO THE SPOTLIGHT

By James Harrer

The Mossad is Israel's secret service. Its rapidly growing army of American agents now seem to operate on the assumption that they have, as one U.S. official put it, a "license to kill, burn and kidnap" from the Reagan administration. The Mossad and its agents in America are the prime suspects in the recent incendiary attack that razed the office and storage facilities of the Institute for Historical Review (IHR).

This is the shared view of four highly placed U.S. counterintelligence and law enforcement officials, who agreed to discuss the background of the IHR career case with a SPOTLIGHT reporter under conditions of strict anonymity.

DEVIL'S PACT

Each one of these career national security executives expressed alarm and concern over what one of them described as "the devil's pact between Reagan and the Mossad."

"During May and June, three top-secret, high-priority White House directives passed through my office," recalled one source to explain what was meant by a "devil's pact."

"They provided detailed guidance for the inauguration of a counterterrorist program code named 'Operation Carta Blanca.'

"This operation involves the activation of a covert task force made up of about 90 Mossad operatives and 60-odd case officers and special agents from the principal U.S. intelligence outfits," recounted this source, a senior law enforcement administrator now assigned to the new Interagency Counterterrorism Executive (IACTEX), which functions as an arm of the National Security Council (NSC).

EXPAND CRIME

In practice, these sources say, Operation Carta Blanca is meant to legitimate and to expand the scope of the Mossad's un-Constitutional and often criminal activities in this country.

To find a precedent for such an agent surrender of authority to the secret agents of an alien power—in this case, Israel—the SPOTLIGHT's veteran sources reached all the way back to the years preceding World War II—an era marked by secret deals between President Franklin D. Roosevelt and British intelligence.

Disregarding his oath of office and the U.S. Constitution, Roosevelt allowed England's Secret Intelligence Service (SIS) to set up a broad operation in America. Its outlines and special powers resembled the concept of the present-day

Operation Carta Blanca directed by the Mossad.

A MAN CALLED INTREPID

This is not conjecture nor hearsay. It is fully documented in confessions of the British agents themselves. The most authoritative source is William Stephenson, whose code name was "Intrepid."

Stephenson's authorized wartime biography has been written by William Stevenson (no relation) in "A Man Called Intrepid." In this best-seller Stephenson/Stevenson reveal many of the British wartime operations within an unknowing, officially neutral United States which were conducted outside of the law.

Roosevelt's maneuverings were so illegal and criminal that even he at one time expressed the fear that if they became known he could have been sent to jail.

Operating out of offices in Rockefeller Center—offices supplied rent-free by Nelson Rockefeller—Stephenson and some 2,000 other British agents were given carte blanche powers.

(In return for his generosity, Rockefeller was permitted by Roosevelt to pick up thousands of German businesses in South America at 10 cents on the dollar or less, businesses which were forced into bankruptcy by Roosevelt's illegal demand that all South American governments boycott all German products or face an American boycott, if not a declaration of war.)

"I am your biggest undercover agent," Roosevelt told William Stephenson (later Sir William Stephenson).

Roosevelt meant it. For reasons which revisionist scholars and psychohistorians are still trying to piece together, the American chief executive came to regard himself as a submissive asset and adjunct of the SIS.

The founding British government of Winston Churchill lost no time in seizing this unexpected opportunity. British spies and operatives flocked to America to carry out espionage, propaganda and deception operations, murder and sabotage. Nominally, their targets were Germany and her allies. But the real aim of the immense British intelligence penetration was to seize control of this nation's foreign policy and defense strategy.

POSTAL INTERFERENCE

With unconditional White House support—and a massive media cover-up to hide occasional calamities—the SIS accomplished its mission. Exploiting the need of trans-Atlantic airway to refuel in Bermuda on their way to New York from Europe, British agents opened the mail between Europe and America on a round-the-clock basis.

Skilled printers and forgers were used to insert fabricated letters in this international mail channel. American authorities were then allowed to "find" these counterfeit communications, and to vent their wrath on the "Nazis" and "spies" who were seemingly incriminated by them.

"Letters on Schering/USA stationery that compromised the company were faked and sent back from Bermuda," William Stephenson noted in his diary in early 1940, recording the dispatch of forged documents, which were subsequently "discovered" by the FBI.

The target of this deception operation was the U.S. subsidiary of Schering A.G., a large German chemical manufacturer. Branded as a "Nazi tool" on the basis of phony documents fabricated by Stephenson's men, Schering/USA was seized by the U.S. Justice Department.

Forged documents, planted news stories and doctored public opinion polls were used extensively by SIS to delude Americans into entering the war against Germany and her allies.

Elaborate "dirty tricks" were staged to discredit patriotic American leaders such as Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, union leader John L. Lewis, and the U.S. ambassador to Britain, Joseph Kennedy, father of John Kennedy.

Where planted papers and false accusations did not work, Stephenson and his men used sabotage, terror attacks, kidnapping and murder to eliminate England's critics and adversaries.

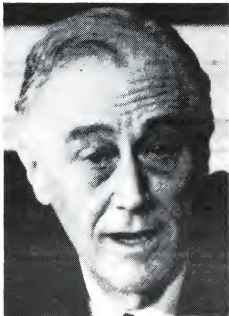

REAGAN IN PANIC

The SPOTLIGHT's sources expressed concern that 40 years after "the disastrous British penetration authorized by Roosevelt," as one of them put it, another American president appears willing to allow an alien secret service to infiltrate Washington's national security bureaucracy and subvert the U.S. government.

FDR's example is very significant. Reagan, formerly a liberal Democrat, has often stated his admiration for Franklin Roosevelt.

Reagan, according to sources close to the White House, is "frantic," as one presidential staffer put it, to secure the support of the Israeli lobby—known for its extraordinary ability to influence the American mass media—for his coming presidential campaign (SPOTLIGHT, June 11). Reports that Israel's endorsement would go to the Democratic candidate as a matter of policy—i.e., to keep Reagan from becoming a two-term president—have fanned White House fears about losing this crucial support.

"Reagan is desperate," said a senior federal security official whose job involved responsibility for the president's personal safety. "He seems ready to do anything Israel wants—no matter if the result is questionable, un-Constitutional or even criminal."

FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT
... Set a precedent.

THE CASE OF SHAPIRO

To substantiate the widespread view among patriotic American law enforcement agents that the Mossad will use criminal methods—including arson—against opponents whom it labels "suspected terrorists" for their criticism or opposition to Israel, the SPOTLIGHT's sources quoted the case of Dr. Lev Ariel Shapiro, 48, an Israeli physician known as a specialist in sedative drugs.

The SPOTLIGHT's sources describe Shapiro as a lifelong Mossad case officer, who served in the special branch commanded by Yitzhak Shamir during the 1960s.

According to these sources, Shapiro was one of the first Mossad agents to be sent to the United States to help launch Operation Carta Blanca. He arrived in New York in late April. He has already served a previous tour on the staff of the huge Mossad covert station there.

RONALD REAGAN
... Made "devil's pact."

Shapiro laid the groundwork for the arrival of the large contingent of Israeli clandestine services operatives who form the main cadre of this joint U.S.-Israeli "counterterrorist" program.

MYSTERIOUS CRATE

In late June, these sources say, Shapiro left New York, flew to London and vanished from sight. He reappeared at 5:30 on July 5, when Scotland Yard detectives and British customs officials opened a large crate being loaded aboard a Nigerian cargo jet at London's Stansted air terminal.

A Nigerian Embassy official in charge of the loading fought hard to shield the huge crates from customs inspection as "diplomatic baggage." But the British officials—who included case officers of the yard's C-13 Special Branch—insisted. They had their own suspicions.

Pried open by armed constables, the crate revealed its hidden contents: a heavily drugged Nigerian exile—a former Cabinet minister—who had been reportedly kidnapped near his London residence only hours earlier. The other figure, cooped up in the cramped enclosure holding a syringe containing Pentothal—just in case the abducted Nigerian tried to make a sound—was Shapiro.

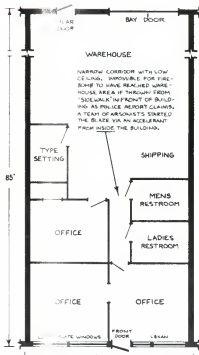

The attempted kidnap, engineered and executed by the Mossad, has rocked the international diplomatic community. In Washington, frustrated and fearful American security officials cited it as a token of worse things to come.

"It seems certain that Operation Carta Blanca will end up executing assignments much like the kidnapping commanded by Shapiro in London," said the White House staffer. "That includes disinformation, forgery, manipulation of public opinion, arson, kidnapping and murder."

"If this venture is permitted to proceed, just to ensure Reagan's re-election, not just the Mossad's selected targets, but America itself will be the ultimate victim."

LEFT: Diagram of the former IHR offices and warehouse—about 2,500 sq. ft. total—more than 5 years accumulation of files, furniture, artwork, equipment, office machines and inventory were wiped out in an inferno that also left businesses on either side of the IHR severely damaged. The two doors at the rear of the building were both steel and were broken open only by the fire department to get to the fire.

The blaze, as intense and destructive at the rear of the building as it was in the front office area, points up the absurdity of the Torrance Police report which said that the "suspect" (singular) used "... gasoline ... poured on the sidewalk in front of the building." To the contrary, all evidence points to a well-surveillance operation. It is evident from the extent of the destruction and the limited time-factor that the terrorists gained illegal entry probably by driving a vehicle right through the Lexan plate facade of the building whereupon they proceeded to dose the entire 2,500 sq. ft. with some heat-generating, highly-flammable chemical. This may have taken less than two minutes, after which they exited the building and then, most likely, hurled a firebomb to set the fire. Interestingly, the Torrance Fire Department report is far more realistic than the police report and contradicts it. The arson report is on file but cannot be obtained except by subpoena. But no matter how one looks at it, it was certainly no small-time firebomber who used "... gasoline ... poured on the sidewalk ..." This was an intricately-planned and professionally-executed raid that was designed to wipe out the IHR in a matter of several minutes with no possibility of anything being left to salvage.

Subscribe Now to THE JOURNAL OF HISTORICAL REVIEW

The Quarterly Publication of
The Institute for Historical Review

Subscribe now and receive as your first two issues the combined Summer/Fall Special Double Issue. With your subscription to the JOURNAL, you will also receive the IHR NEWSLETTER, an 8-times per year eventful journal of interest to academic and lay historical revisionists, compiled by the staff of the Institute for Historical Review. (The IHR NEWSLETTER cannot be subscribed to separately.)

- ☐ 1 year subscription, $30 Sample issue of THE JOURNAL, $7.50 Sample issue of the IHR NEWSLETTER, $1. Add $10 per year for U.S. 1st class subscriptions. Add $5 per year for foreign subscriptions. Add $15 per year for foreign airmail. Remit in U.S. dollars.
- ☐ 2 year subscription, $50
- ☐ 3 year subscription, $70

(Each issue of THE JOURNAL is 128 pages on high-quality natural paper and perfect bound)

- ☐ Please send me the following number of additional copies of this 4-page story on the arson at IHR headquarters. Prices include postage.
- ☐ 5 copies for $2 ☐ 10 copies for $3 ☐ 50 copies for $10 ☐ 100 copies 15¢ each
- ☐ Please send me your booklet and add my name to your mailing list. I enclose $3 which I may deduct from my first order of any IHR books or tapes.

I am enclosing a total of $ _____ in ☐ check ☐ cash ☐ money order

NAME _____ ADDRESS _____

CITY _____ STATE/ZIP _____

Detach and mail to INSTITUTE FOR HISTORICAL REVIEW, P.O. Box 1306, Torrance, CA 90505

Revisionists Victims of Book Burning Terror in California

Torrance History Publisher Suffers Years Of Persecution Ending in $400,000 Holocaust

Reprinted by permission of The Spotlight, 300 Independence Ave., S.E. Washington, D.C. 20003

EXCLUSIVE TO THE SPOTLIGHT

By James Thompson

You may challenge the divinity of Jesus Christ and be applauded. You may spit on the flag. You can give aid and comfort to our enemies and make millions in Hollywood. You may print and promote the vilest pornography for children and scream obscenities at genteel ladies and the media will report on it sympathetically, explaining it's permitted under the First Amendment. You may advocate the use of drugs and the extermination of all White people. Anything goes.

was demolished by the terrorist tool of arson.

Thousands of books, estimated at a retail value of more than $300,000, fed the chemically-induced fire set a few minutes after midnight in Torrance, California.

Also destroyed were thousands of dollars' worth of typewriters, desks, chairs, tables, typesetting equipment and supplies, the IHR Revisionist Library, irreplaceable records, documents, translations, manuscripts and files.

The uncaring, diffident Torrance Police (TPD) have no suspects. The mayor of Torrance, James Armstrong,

VICTIMS OF PERSECUTION

The IHR and its personnel have been victims of innumerable terrorist actions ever since shortly after it was founded in 1978. In the last two months, employees have had a total of 22 fires slashed and their cars vandalized. One family has had to move to a house with a garage they can lock at night to protect their cars. Telephone threats during office hours and at night to homes of employees have been too numerous to count although they have been dutifully reported to authorities.

The Jewish Defense League (JDL), which has publicly taken "credit" for some of the harassments, and considers tack and the inside of the office was damaged each time by flames. With the third attack a new element was added: The terrorists fired bullets into the office, aiming at where they believed Tom Marcellus was sitting.

During 1983 things quieted down, but this was the calm before the storm. Apparently the relatively amateurish attempts to put the IHR out of business were being upgraded. It is presumed that well-trained professionals from the Israeli army were assigned the task of wiping out the IHR exactly as that army has wiped out thousands of homes and business establishments of Palestinians and Lebanese and exactly the way the rescue some material. IHR headquarters in Torrance, California was totally destroyed by terrorists on July 4. Note roof completely burned away.

In the photo at left is the front of the IHR headquarters building. No firebomb could have been thrown through the window. In the right photo, Tom Marcellus attempts to

Well, almost anything. There is one thing you may not say without political terror. You cannot challenge the theory we all know as "The Holocaust."

Do that and you will be picketed, threatened with death, firebombed and destroyed while the authorities look on approvingly, hand in hand with the criminals.

Photographs on these pages show vividly the painful truth. Here is what happens to your precious First Amendment guarantee of freedom of speech if you should dare to challenge the new religion of "The Holocaust" and historical orthodoxy.

ON THE FOURTH OF JULY

On the eve of our nation's birthday, July 4, 1984, the office-warehouse of the Institute for Historical Review (IHR)

who has made his position of support for the haters of historical truth quite clear, is contemptuously silent about the terror which has engulfed his city.

"The criminals who perpetrated this atrocity chose the date well," said Tom Marcellus, director of the IHR. "The fourth of July has always had a happy and proud significance for Americans," he said. "Until today it has been a celebration of the birth of freedom. Today we mourn its death.

"Of all our traditional freedoms," he said, "the First Amendment is the most important—our guarantee of the freedom of speech and religion. Without these, the others are meaningless.

"Our crime," said Marcellus, "has been to tell the truth as we see it, and this is our punishment."

itself part of the Israeli army, has picketed the office, Israeli flag flying, and the homes of employees and associates, screaming and chanting death threats to occupants.

JDL fanatics have tried to gain entrance to the office during daylight hours. IHR employees and visitors have been watched, photographed and followed. The founder of the IHR was once assaulted and might have been killed if the police had not arrived in the nick of time.

There were three previous attempts to incinerate the IHR office and one to burn the home of personnel. The first firebomb attack took place on June 25, 1981. There was a second on April 25, 1982 and a third on September 5, 1982.

Windows were destroyed in each at-cowardly Israelis tried to sink the virtually defenseless American vessel, the "USS Liberty," in 1967.

The catastrophe of July 4, 1984 was the culmination of a long series of attempts which had all failed in their object: to silence the increasingly influential voice of the IHR.

AUTHORITIES IGNORE VIOLENCE

All this has gone on while the local and federal authorities not only look the other way but have made no effort to find the perpetrators of these criminal acts and charge them. Finding them would be easy. It is known that the TPD has high-quality photographs of all those who have picketed the IHR, the names, addresses and license plate numbers of most of them and the criminal records of many of these thugs.

The police also have numerous tape recordings of JDL callers threatening IHR personnel with death, but they have done nothing to find the culprits, bring them in and question them. Once, when someone bombed a Jewish delicatessen in Torrance, the police made a major effort to find the suspects, including questioning IHR personnel. The cops, however, hastily dropped the case when it became apparent that the bombing was the work of a faction of rabbis trying to horn in on another group of rabbis who control the lucrative kosher food racket in Torrance.

Harassment, physical terrorism and official inaction have been only three aspects of an overall strategy operating at all levels to silence the IHR. Concurrent with the above was an attempt to destroy the IHR from the inside. Two employees, secretly working in collusion, were discovered to be sabotaging the IHR and were fired. Although neither has any visible means of support, both have kept up a fusillade of deliberately false and slanderous attempts to undermine support for the IHR.

INTERNATIONAL BATTLE

Although the IHR has had to take severe abuse in the United States, for adhering to the revisionist position, others have fared as badly in foreign countries.

In France, Dr. Robert Faurisson was tried for his dissident views. Exhaustive, first-hand research led this professor, an expert in authenticating documents, to dismiss "The Holocaust" as a total fiction. He was subjected to bitter ridicule and calumny. He lost his job and his marriage and gained a nervous breakdown. However, the outcome of his trial was a shock to true believers in "The Holocaust" theory. The hostile judge could not find him guilty of lying.

In Sweden Ditleib Felderer, after visiting Auschwitz numerous times, talking with the authorities there, asking questions, reading the records, inspecting and photographing the place in detail and testing all facts against the claims of "survivors," concluded there could not have been any gas chambers at that wartime internment camp—in many respects better than the camps that Roosevelt provided for the Japanese during the war. Felderer was arrested for ridiculing the claims of one Mel Mermelstein (of which more follows) and was held in jail without trial until an international effort forced the Swedes to release him.

In Germany, Judge Wilhelm Staeglich wrote a book on the question of Auschwitz. Nothing untrue was found in the book, but the authorities destroyed all copies, forced him off the bench and even took his college degree away, ironically using a law passed by Adolf Hitler's government. (The IHR had been planning an English-language edition of this book but the plans are now on ice.)

In Canada Ernst Zuendel lives in fear of his life. The authorities have banned his writing and he must have an escort wherever he goes. He, too, claims that "The Holocaust" is a public relations gimmick propagated by those who profit from it.

In America, Dr. Arthur Butz, a professor at Northwestern University, has offered to debate anyone on the question of "The Holocaust." No one will accept that challenge, but Butz is constantly faced with demands for his resignation and threats on his life. His crime is writing "The Hoax of the 20th Century," a book which painstakingly and in detail analyzes the question of the alleged mass extermination policies of the Germans.

In Long Beach, a professor at California State University, Dr. Reinhard Buchner, formerly an associate of the IHR, was spat upon, physically attacked, and had JDL thugs marauding in his neighborhood constantly. He had a heart attack and is now in retirement.

PROTECTIVE MEASURES TAKEN

Because of the continuing attacks, the IHR tried to protect itself. All windows were replaced by bullet-resistant Lexan, tempered glass, resistant to very hard knocks. The windows, in fact, were so hard to break that only a sledgehammer or similar heavy battering tool could have broken through. The building was also protected by electronic fire and entrance devices. Often, someone slept in the office with a gun at hand. Fortunately, no one was in the office on the night of July 3-4.

One example of the clumsiness of the TPD is the comment of Lt. Jim Pabst. Quoted by the Associated Press in a dispatch carried widely (the New York "Times" ran a sanitized version in its first edition, then dropped it). Pabst said that the blaze was "triggered by someone who hurled a Molotov cocktail into the building or doused the offices with gasoline and set them afire."

IHR employees stand atop mountain of burned books.

Pabst is wrong on both counts. The blaze could not possibly have been triggered by a Molotov cocktail because no human being could have thrown it through Lexan.

Also, there was an interior door, 15 feet from the main entrance, which was closed. A firebomb couldn't have been thrown through the front window and into the rear warehouse area (where the fire started) unless illegal entrance had already been gained.

The fire was obviously set by intruders, who had to break down the deadbolted door or break in through the impact-resistant windows. The intruders then ran into the warehouse and splattered it with a flame propellant which was certainly not gasoline but which burned much slower, hotter and longer than gas. They then ignited it without an explosion killing themselves and escaped. A highly trained crew with the proper tools and equipment and detailed planning could have done the job safely in three minutes.

Contrary to the TPD "expert," if arsonists had used gasoline it would have exploded, blowing out the rear door and probably killing the criminals. It also would not have burned as hot as the substance used.

"The flame propellant used," said an observer, "was probably either thermite—a substance developed during World War II to kill German civilians in mass bombing raids, or a post-war jelly substance the Israelis use on their neighbors—and American taxpayers probably paid for it."

Legal means were also being used to silence the IHR. Mel Mermelstein, claiming to be a "survivor," used the institute for $17 million, claiming the IHR harmed him by denying "established historical fact," causing him sleepless nights, loss of weight and mental anguish. Oddly, Mermelstein never made any serious attempt to prove that there was a "holocaust," thus passively admitting that he was unable to disprove any of the historical facts advanced by IHR scholars.

To the blare of publicity whenever they wanted it, Mermelstein, Simon

Wiesenthal and hundreds if not thousands of spokesmen for "The Holocaust" theory condemned the IHR almost daily. Strangely, however, the IHR's bonded offer to pay $50,000 to anyone who could prove that there were gas chambers in Auschwitz for the purpose of killing human beings was massively ignored by the press.

Although the IHR raised a trust fund of $50,000 to pay to the first person to prove the thesis there were only three applicants, none of whom had a scintilla of proof. Simon Wiesenthal, Elie Wiesel, Mel Mermelstein and countless others who never cease bleating about these alleged gas chambers failed to come forward to prove their case and collect. Although the media chose to ignore the IHR's legally funded, precise offer, innumerable references to "nazis" who "denied the holocaust" were printed and voiced widely. Even President Reagan joined the party, kicking around unnamed "falsifiers of history" who would dare to deny what everyone knew.

Reagan, in fact, even went to the extreme of lying. He said he personally saw "gas chambers" at Dachau—although Ronald Reagan was never in Europe during the war and even the king of exterminationists himself, Simon Wiesenthal, is on record admitting that no gas chambers existed at Dachau or anywhere else in Germany.

(Wiesenthal is himself somewhat of a historical revisionist. He used to claim that many extermination camps were located in what is now West Germany, but has recently taken to claiming that they were all located in what are now communist-occupied countries, such as the famous Auschwitz in Poland. The communists agree.)

A distorted version of the IHR's offer served as the basis for an episode of "Quincy," a TV serial, which has, mercifully, since then, expired because of well-deserved lack of viewer interest.

The IHR has caused the so-called Anti-Defamation League (ADL) of B'nai B'rith (an illegally unregistered agent for a foreign government and a "working partner" with the JDL) to produce something it called "Holocaust" and which it fittingly labeled a "docu-drama," thereby admitting that it is fiction. To the hosannas of politicians, editorial writers and so-called "news" commentators, "Holocaust" has been force-fed to millions of gullible TV viewers as factual.

Here are all that survived. The boxes were inside a closet, unburned but water-soaked. Some files inside metal drawers were severely charred and water-soaked.

Immediately after the fire, employees of the IHR began receiving ghoulish phone calls from JDL members gloating over the destruction. For the past few years the JDL has been able to get unlisted telephone numbers of IHR personnel from the telephone company hours after being assigned. And phone calls from the office were routinely monitored by illegal listeners.

The son of a woman employee was telephoned in Tucson, where he worked. He was told by a JDL caller that his mother and father had been killed. The son was unable to call his parents in Torrance because they had taken their own telephone off the hook because of the harassing and sadistic calls they were receiving.

Irv Rubin, Los Angeles head of the JDL, called a press conference at the burned-out ruins. Climbing on top of the mountain of burned books Rubin said proudly that the JDL was very happy at the crime but—of course—didn't know who did it. Rubin suspects, he says, an undercover cop allegedly named Joel Cohen who once infiltrated into the JDL and, according to Rubin, tried to incite the JDL to even greater violence than was normal for it.

WHY EXIST?

"Why have you people made such an issue out of the 'Holocaust'?" I asked. "Why is this point so important?"

"In the first place, we haven't made it an issue," said Marcellus. "Our enemies have. We are too small to make an issue out of anything. All we've done is to report the findings of others and this has upset the entire Establishment, as you can see. But the basic answer as to its importance is that this false 'fact' literally distorts America's view of everything. It stops any real inquiry into the causes of both world wars because it falsely settles the war guilt question by simply declaring Germany guilty of everything. It makes it impossible to understand the causes of war—and this is the reason for the IHR in the first place.

"While politicians and other creatures constantly beat about their love for peace they really promote war because they are too ignorant, too corrupt or too cowardly to face the facts," he said. "And also, the 'Holocaust' myth costs the taxpayers billions each year to support Israel while at the same time destroying our relations with the rest of the world."

50,000-TO-ONE RATIO

"I suppose that for every dollar we have spent the Establishment has put up 50,000 more to try to counteract us," said Marcellus. "As Boris Pasternak said in 'Dr. Zhivago,' 'Nothing is more powerful than the cudgel of unearned truth,' and we have proven what a little truth can do against the naked power of the Establishment.

"It's amazing what we've done. That's why they had to get us, even at the cost of revealing their true terrorist nature to anyone who has eyes to see."

Looking around at the wreckage, Marcellus cynically mused: "I guess Pasternak overlooked something. He never mentioned that the enemies of the truth have a very painful cudgel." ●

PICKET—Jewish Defense League picketing Institute for Historical Review, in Torrance, California, April 5, 1981. Notice Israeli flag carried by demonstrator. The JDL considers itself part of the Israeli Army (SPOTLIGHT, July 16 and 23).

'Devil's Pact' Between U.S., Mossad

Israeli Secret Service Moves to Crush What It Views as American Opposition to Zionism

EXCLUSIVE TO THE SPOTLIGHT

By James Harner

The Mossad is Israel's secret service. Its rapidly growing army of American agents now seem to operate on the assumption that they have, as one U.S. official put it, a "license to kill, burn and kidnap" from the Reagan administration. The Mossad and its agents in America are the prime suspects in the recent incendiary attack that razed the office and storage facilities of the Institute for Historical Review (IHR).

This is the shared view of four highly placed U.S. counterintelligence and law enforcement officials, who agreed to discuss the background of the IHR arson case with a SPOTLIGHT reporter under conditions of strict anonymity.

DEVIL'S PACT

Each one of these career national security executives expressed alarm and concern over what one of them described as "the devil's pact between Reagan and the Mossad."

"During May and June, three top-secret, high-priority White House directives passed through my office," recalled one source to explain what was meant by a "devil's pact."

"They provided detailed guidance for the inauguration of a counterterrorist

program code named 'Operation Carta Blanca.'

"This operation involves the activation of a covert task force made up of about 90 Mossad operatives and 60-odd case officers and special agents from the principal U.S. intelligence outfits," recounted this source, a senior law enforcement administrator now assigned to the new National Counterterrorism Executive (IACTEX), which functions as an arm of the National Security Council (NSC).

EXPAND CRIME

In practice, these sources say, Operation Carta Blanca is meant to legitimate and to expand the scope of the Mossad's un-Constitutional and often criminal activities in this country.

To find a precedent for such an abject surrender of authority to the secret agents of an alien power—in this case, Israel—the SPOTLIGHT's veteran sources reached all the way back to the years preceding World War II—an era marked by secret deals between President Franklin D. Roosevelt and British intelligence.

Disregarding his oath of office and the U.S. Constitution, Roosevelt allowed England's Secret Intelligence Service (SIS) to set up a broad operation in America. Its outlines and special powers resembled the concept of the present-day

Operation Carta Blanca directed by the Mossad.

A MAN CALLED INTREPID

This is not conjecture nor hearsay. It is fully documented in confessions of the British agents themselves. The most authoritative source is William Stephenson, whose code name was "Intrepid."

Stephenson's authorized wartime biography has been written by William Stevenson (no relation) in "A Man Called Intrepid." In this best-seller Stephenson/Stevenson reveal many of the British wartime operations within an unknown, officially neutral United States which were conducted outside of the law.

Roosevelt's maneuverings were so illegal and criminal that even he at one time expressed the fear that if they became known he could have been sent to jail.

Operating out of offices in Rockefeller Center—offices supplied rent-free by Nelson Rockefeller—Stephenson and some 2,000 other British agents were given carte blanche powers.

(In return for his generosity, Rockefeller was permitted by Roosevelt to pick up thousands of German businesses in South America at 10 cents on the dollar or less, businesses which were forced into bankruptcy by Roosevelt's illegal demand that all South American governments boycott all German products or face an American boycott, if not a declaration of war.)

"I am your biggest undercover agent," Roosevelt told William Stephenson (later Sir William Stephenson).

Roosevelt meant it. For reasons which revisionist scholars and psychohistorians are still trying to piece together, the American chief executive came to regard himself as a submissive asset and adjunct of the SIS.

The founding British government of Winston Churchill lost no time in seizing this unexpected opportunity. British spies and operatives flocked to America to carry out espionage, propaganda and deception operations, murder and sabotage. Nominally, their targets were Germany and her allies. But the real aim of the immense British intelligence penetration was to seize control of this nation's foreign policy and defense strategy.

POSTAL INTERFERENCE

With unconditional White House support—and a massive media cover-up to hide occasional calamities—the SIS accomplished its mission. Exploiting the need of trans-Atlantic aircraft to refuel in Bermuda on their way to New York from Europe, British agents opened the mail between Europe and America on a round-the-clock basis.

Skilled printers and forgers were used to insert-fabricated letters in this international mail channel. American authorities were then allowed to "find" these counterfeit communications, and to vent their wrath on the "Nazis" and "spies" who were seemingly incriminated by them.

"Letters on Schering/USA stationery that compromised the company were faked and sent back from Bermuda," William Stephenson noted in his diary in early 1940, recording the dispatch of forged documents, which were subsequently "discovered" by the FBI.

The target of this deception operation was the U.S. subsidiary of Schering A.G., a large German chemical manufacturer. Branded as a "Nazi tool" on the basis of phony documents fabricated by Stephenson's men, Schering/USA was seized by the U.S. Justice Department.

Forged documents, planted news stories and doctored public opinion polls were used extensively by SIS to delude Americans into entering the war against Germany and her allies.

Elaborate "dirty tricks" were staged to discredit patriotic American leaders such as Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, union leader John L. Lewis, and the U.S. ambassador to Britain, Joseph Kennedy, father of John Kennedy.

Where planted papers and false accusations did not work, Stephenson and his men used sabotage, terror attacks, kidnapping and murder to eliminate England's critics and adversaries.

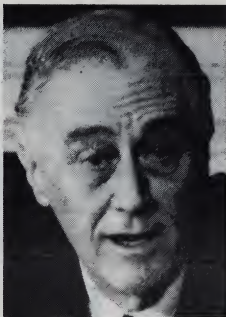

REACTION IN PANIC

The SPOTLIGHT's sources expressed concern that 40 years after "the disastrous British penetration authorized by Roosevelt," as one of them put it, another American president appears willing to allow an alien secret service to infiltrate Washington's national security bureaucracy and subvert the U.S. government.

FDR's example is very significant. Reagan, formerly a liberal Democrat, has often stated his admiration for Franklin Roosevelt.

Reagan, according to sources close to the White House, is "frantic," as one presidential staffer put it, to secure the support of the Israeli lobby—known for its extraordinary ability to influence the American mass media—for his coming presidential campaign (SPOTLIGHT, June 11). Reports that Israel's endorsement would go to the Democratic candidate as a matter of policy—i.e., to keep Reagan from becoming a two-term president—have fanned White House fears about losing this crucial support.

"Reagan is desperate," said a senior federal security official whose job involved responsibility for the president's personal safety. "He seems ready to do anything Israel wants—no matter if the result is questionable, un-Constitutional or even criminal."

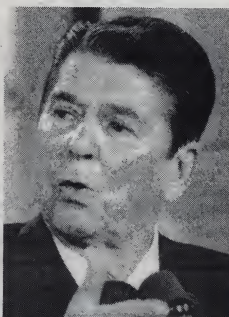

FRANKLIN ROOSEVELT
... Set a precedent.

THE CASE OF SHAPIRO

To substantiate the widespread view among patriotic American law enforcement agents that the Mossad will use criminal methods—including arson—against opponents whom it labels "suspected terrorists" for their criticism or opposition to Israel, The SPOTLIGHT's sources quoted the case of Dr. Lev Ariel Shapiro, 48, an Israeli physician known as a specialist in sedative drugs.

The SPOTLIGHT's sources describe Shapiro as a lifelong Mossad case officer, who served in the special branch commanded by Yitzhak Shamir during the 1960s.

According to these sources, Shapiro was one of the first Mossad agents to be sent to the United States to help launch Operation Carta Blanca. He arrived in New York in late April. He has already served a previous tour on the staff of the huge Mossad covert station there.

RONALD REAGAN
... Made "devil's pact."

Shapiro laid the groundwork for the arrival of the large contingent of Israeli clandestine services operatives who form the main cadre of this joint U.S.-Israeli "counterterrorist" program.

MYSTERIOUS CRATE

In late June, these sources say, Shapiro left New York, flew to London and vanished from sight. He reappeared at 5:30 on July 5, when Scotland Yard detectives and British customs officials opened a large crate being loaded aboard a Nigerian cargo jet at London's Stansted air terminal.

A Nigerian Embassy official in charge of the loading found hard to shield the huge crates from customs inspection as "diplomatic baggage." But the British officials—who included case officers of the yard's C-13 Special Branch—insisted, they had their own suspicions.

Pried open by armed constables, the crate revealed its hidden contents: a heavily drugged Nigerian exile—a former Cabinet minister—who had been reportedly kidnapped near his London residence only hours earlier. The other figure cooped up in the cramped enclosure holding a syringe containing Pentothal—just in case the abducted Nigerian tried to make a sound—was Shapiro.

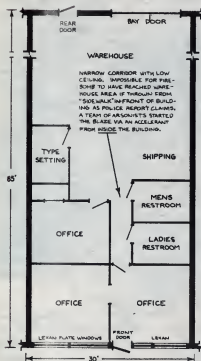

The attempted kidnapping, engineered and executed by the Mossad, has rocked the international diplomatic community. In Washington, frustrated and fearful American security officials cited it as a token of worse things to come.

"It seems certain that Operation Carta Blanca will end up executing assignments much like the kidnapping commanded by Shapiro in London," said the White House staffer. "That includes disinformation, forgery, manipulation of public opinion, arson, kidnapping and murder."

"If this venture is permitted to proceed, just to ensure Reagan's re-election, not just the Mossad's selected targets, but America itself will be the ultimate victim."

LEFT: Diagram of the former IHR offices and warehouse—about 2,500 sq. ft. total—where more than 5 years accumulation of files, furniture, artwork, equipment, office machines and inventory were wiped out in an inferno that also left businesses on either side of the IHR severely damaged. The two doors at the rear of the building were both steel and were broken open only by the fire department to get to the fire.

The blaze, as intense and destructive at the rear of the building as it was in the front office area, points up the absurdity of the Torrance Police report which said that the "suspect" (singular) used "... gasoline ... poured on the sidewalk in front of the building." To the contrary, all evidence points to a well-surveillance operation. It is evident from the extent of the destruction and the limited time-factor that the terrorists gained illegal entry probably by driving a vehicle right through the Lexan plate facement of the building whereupon they proceeded to douse the entire 2,500 sq. ft. with some heat-generating, highly-flammable chemical. This may have taken less than two minutes, after which they exited the building and then, most likely, hurled a firebomb to set the fire. Interestingly, the Torrance Fire Department report is far more realistic than the police report and contradicts it. The arson report is on file but cannot be obtained. The police report is on file but none have one looks at it, it was certainly no small-time firebomber who used "... gasoline ... poured on the sidewalk. ... This was an intricately-planned and professionally-executed raid that was designed to wipe out the IHR in a matter of several minutes with no possibility of anything being left to salvage.

Subscribe Now to

THE JOURNAL OF HISTORICAL REVIEW

The Quarterly Publication of
The Institute for Historical Review

Subscribe now and receive as your first two issues the combined Summer/Fall Special Double Issue. With your subscription to the JOURNAL, you will also receive the IHR NEWSLETTER, an 8-times per year eventful journal of interest to academic and lay historical revisionists, compiled by the staff of the Institute for Historical Review. (The IHR NEWSLETTER cannot be subscribed to separately.)

- ☐ 1 year subscription, $30 Sample issue of THE JOURNAL, $7.50. Sample issue of the IHR NEWSLETTER, $1. Add $10 per year for U.S. 1st Class subscriptions. Add $5 per year for foreign subscriptions. Add $15 per year for foreign annual. Remit in U.S. dollars.

(Each issue of THE JOURNAL is 128 pages on high-quality natural paper and perfect bound)

- ☐ Please send me the following number of additional copies of this 4-page story on the arson at IHR headquarters. Prices include postage.
☐ 5 copies for $2 ☐ 10 copies for $3 ☐ 50 copies for $10 ☐ 100 copies 15¢ each
☐ Please send me your booklet and add my name to your mailing list. I enclose $3 which I may deduct from my first order of any IHR books or tapes.

I am enclosing a total of $ _____ in ☐ check ☐ cash ☐ money order

NAME _____ ADDRESS _____

CITY _____ STATE/ZIP _____

Detach and mail to INSTITUTE FOR HISTORICAL REVIEW, P.O. Box 1306, Torrance, CA 90505